Why do I need Preventative Maintenance?

The facts are that, as equipment ages, its reliability or potential for failure usually increases. All air conditioning, heat pumps and refrigeration equipment have filters or condensing units which require cleaning. If unchecked, this will ultimately cause system failure and increases running costs by up to 15 % per annum.

What will Preventative Maintenance do for my business?

- Ensures your equipment operates at optimum energy consumption and therefore reduces running costs
- Improves your equipment reliability
- Extends the life of your equipment
- Minimises emergency callouts and breakdowns (typically occurring during your busiest periods)
- Timely, routine repairs prevent large scale repairs
- Identification of equipment with excessive maintenance costs, indicating the need for corrective maintenance, or replacement of obsolete equipment
- Provide operator training to optimize running costs and reduce possible breakdown
- All your air conditioning & larger refrigeration systems will be F gas checked, and all your annual EPA F gas responsibility will be completed and certified by ecoCOOL

What is included in my Preventative Maintenance Contract?

- We will inspect your equipment at regular intervals (typically twice per year)
- We will complete Preventative Maintenance program, including cleaning of all filters and condensers, etc.
- We will issue you with a completed inspection report on each piece of equipment
- We will advise if any remedial action is required on a piece of equipment
- We will advise on how to optimise the energy consumption of each unit
- We will F gas certify each air conditioner / large refrigeration system in accordance with EPA regulations
- We will discount any necessary repair or emergency call by 15 % if you have taken out a Preventative Maintenance Contract on that particular piece of equipment.
